What's New This Year

- Began documenting Turley Cup knockout round brackets.
- Started tracking top-three finishes.
- Devised yet another alternate scoring method to make you feel better or worse about your actual finishing position.
- Added a rookie leaderboard.
- Added a map, which made me stalk Taylor's Instagram to figure out which island he lived on.
- Added a not-very-evergreen ad.
- To avoid confusion for the ~14 players that haven't met him IRL, Vern is now listed as Brendan O.
- To avoid confusion for the archivist, seasons are now referred to by year (instead of roman numerals).
- Added about 25% more white space I didn't know what to fill with. Some of it is right here.

Turley Cup Playoff

Formula B

How many ways can I slice the same small set of data? As many as I need to fill space in this thing, that's how many. Here's what the final CDB table would have been if we scored each month in a vacuum and applied Formula 1's points system. Colored numbers indicate change from actual finishing position.

League Notes

- Diamond Hands (Fingers?)—For the third-straight season, league scoring was on an overall upward trend. This year's average of 2117.82 points per player was a 4.87% increase over last season (2019.5).
- Enter Your Initials—Eight players posted scores high enough to land among the league's Top 25 best ever, including six in the top 10, making this year the most represented on the list (see page 9). Overall, 10 of 17 players registered personal bests this season.
- We're Going Streaking—Four players (Alex A., Casey D., Jacob F. and Taylor K.) posted a fourth consecutive 2,000+-point season, something never before accomplished. David E. and Nick V. could match this feat next year.

Select Player Notes

Aaron K.

- Most Improved—Had the season's largest YoY swing in finishing position, jumping from 13th in 2019/20 to fifth in 2020/21.

Casey D.

- Rain Meet Parade—Turley Cup win marks new high in most seasons played before winning a trophy (8). Of the other players that have won trophies, it took an average of just 2.29 seasons to lift their first.

David E.

- Calibrating: Complete—After floundering in last place (18th) his rookie year (17/18), has now reeled off three straight Top 6 finishes.

Jacob F.

- End of the Scatterplot Rainbow—Saw his unmatched streak of nine straight season totals above the league average come to end.

Patrick D.

- Rookie of the Year (by Default)—Became just the sixth player (of 25 total) to score 1980 or more in their inaugural season, but the first in that group to finish lower than 7th.

Ryan R.

- Well, It Sounds Like a Good Thing...—Of any player with at least three seasons, owns the smallest deviation of any player's worst (14th) and best (8th) career finish.

Steve F.

- The Ghost with the Most—After finishing 4th in 19/20, set a record for most places dropped YoY after finishing 17th in 20/21 (-13 places).

Taylor K.

- How Low, Can You Go—Second-place finish further lowered average finishing position to an incredible 3.7 (six seasons), a league record.

Hardware Summary

All-Time Hardware Count

Oh, the Places You'll Go

After coming of age in the Motherland, our little Copa has had quite the journey. This summer the trophy took its longest voyage yet, traveling nearly 4,600 miles from Hawaii to Florida. Big thank you to Taylor for making this a pain in the ass to scale.

- Total distance traveled: 11,177 miles
- Longest trip: 4,599 miles (Kailua, HI to St. Petersburg, FL)
