On the cover: ~~Ray Borque~~ Casey Davis hoists the Turley Cup for the first time in his nine-year career—while wearing an Avs sweater for some reason.

What's New This Year

- Because it seems more soccer-y (and to inflate my own numbers), changed Top 3s to Top 4s on the All-Time Standings page.
- New Turley Cup format means a new Turley Cup page format yet again...hopefully for the last time.
- Added a month-by-month breakdown to the F1 page.
- Added a list of the largest YoY improvements in finishing position.
- New background pics because I felt fancy and just discovered Unsplash.
- Added the token betting preview found at the back of every sports magazine, along with Chris Berman's official 2022/23 picks.

League Notes

- Regression to the Mean—For the first time since 2018/19, average league scoring saw a decline, down to 1983.79 pts./player (-6.54%). However, this average is still the third-highest in league history.
- Enter Your Initials—Six players posted scores that were among the league's Top 25 best ever, including the top three. This season is now the second-most represented on the list.
- Still Streaking—Although a 2,000-point season doesn't mean what it used to, four players (Alex A., Casey D., Jacob F. and Taylor K.) hit that mark for an unprecedented fifth-consecutive season.
- Winning Begets Winning—A player claiming hardware in back-to-back seasons is more the rule than the exception, as seven times in league history a player has now won the Copa and/or Turley in consecutive seasons.

Select Player Notes

- Freeeeefallin'—Tied for the season's largest drop in finishing position, Aaron K. and Michael C. each plummeted nine places compared to their 2020/21 finish (to 14th and 18th, respectively).
- The Path of Most Resistance—En route to his second Turley Cup, Brendan O. defeated the 2nd, 1st, 9th, and 10th-place league finishers by an average of 28 points. Swap the order of the first two and that's the hardest conceivable route given the teams remaining each round.
- Probably Should Have Seen That Coming—His two-season trophy streak was not out of left field, as Casey D. has now finished Top 7 in eight of his nine seasons (and in the Top 3 four of the last five.)
- Roseman's Revenge—Three years from posting the league's lowest score ever, and a year after taking a season off, Derek R. jumped 13 positions compared to 2019/20 on the way to third place, the highest finish by a Roseman.
- Set It, Forget It...Win It?—Despite making zero transfers, having a final squad value of £88, and finishing dead last, RJ L. still managed to work his way to the Turley Cup semifinals with eight active starters...losing by just eight points.
- I'm So Tired of Writing About You—After a second-consecutive silver finish, Taylor K. has now finished more than half of his seasons in the top two, including in each of the past four campaigns.

2021/22 Season Recap

Formula B

What would the final CDB table look like if we scored each month in a vacuum and applied Formula 1's points system? Not that different it turns out, meaning once FPL finally becomes open source we should just use this scoring system instead.

Colored numbers indicate change from actual finishing position.

1	Casey D. (179 pts.)	—	11	Nick V. (30)	—
2	Taylor K. (138)	—	12	Adam M. (16)	+1
3	Derek R. (125)	—	13	Daniel K. (15)	+4

10	Alex A. (44)	-1

Month-by-Month

As champions do, Casey only took two months away from the podium (but still finished fifth and fourth during those periods). And because he'll point it out if I don't, Brendan closed insanely strong as apparent springtime champion.

2022-23 Betting Preview

An entirely meaningless exercise, unless you can convince your local bookie to take action on a fantasy soccer league (in which case...let me know).

2022/23 Copa de Boro — To Win

Casey D. +440	Tim S. +2300
Taylor K. +470	Aaron K. +2900
Andrew E. +1000	Michael C. + 2900
Brendan O. +1100	Adam M. +2900
Jacob F. +1300	Patrick D. +3600
Makenzi E. +1400	Daniel K. +3600
Alex A. +1600	Ryan R. +4400
Derek R. +1800	Taylor M. +4400
David E. +2300	Rookie (TBD) +10000
Nick V. +2300	RJ L. +11000

Swami Sez: The smart money (and hopefully a jinx) is on Taylor, but the Old Firm also feels undervalued and overdue for a return to the top three.

Win—Taylor K. | Place—Nick V. | Show—Jacob F.
